AEA Technology plc wins techMARK sustainability award

AEA, the leading climate change and energy consultancy, has won the prestigious techMARK sustainability award.

The techMark Awards recognize outstanding performance by innovative stocks listed on the FTSE techMark indexes. The companies on techMARK (as classified by the Global Classification System), give investors exposure to stocks actively involved in services and technologies shaping markets of the future.

This new sustainability award recognises AEA's accomplishments across three key areas of economic, environmental and social sustainability. As well as making their own operations more sustainable, AEA has played an important role in helping address wider concerns such as the causes and effects of climate change, resource efficiency and innovation, or social equity.

As the category winner AEA demonstrated leadership, innovation, and lasting commitment to sustainability.

Alice Cummings, AEA Chief Financial Officer, said; 'AEA has been at the forefront of climate change and energy consultancy for more than 30 years, and we are really delighted to have our expertise in this vitally important area recognized by techMark.'
